ATOMIC BOMBS DOOM JAPS

Deluge Of New Bombs Certain Unless Japan Surrenders

Japan Reports New Bomb Came By Parachute

Admits "Considerable Damage" Is Caused At Hiroshima By Atomic Bomb

JAPS LAUNCH NEW PROPAGANDA LINE

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The Japanese Domei agency said today that the first atomic bomb dropped on Nippon descended by parachute "and exploded in the air before reaching the ground."

The broadcast, coming slightly after another transmission told of "considerable damage" to Hiroshima, which President Truman announced as the target of the initial atomic bombing, declared that "the destructive power of the new weapon cannot be slighted."

Considerable Destructive Power

Quoting what were described as "informed quarters," Domei admitted that the bomb had "considerable destructive power." It described the missile only as a "new-type weapon," and asserted that a "small number of planes dropped "a few" of the bombs.

According to the enemy transmission, a considerable number of houses in the city Hiroshima were demolished, while fires were caused at several points."

The broadcast came nearly 36 hours after the Hiroshima raid, but seemed to maintain that "investigation is at present underway into the extent of the damage brought by the enemy's new tactics."

Work On Counter Measures

Domei claimed that the Japanese authorities were already working on "effective counter-measures" it declared:

"The history of war shows that the new weapon, however effective, will eventually lose its power, as

Dropping Of Atomic Bomb Launches Era Of Titanic Possibilities

By CAPT. JOHN H. CRAIGE
(Written Especially for I.N.S.)

A landmark of tremendous, perhaps inconceivable significance in the history of the human race was created for all time when Uncle Sam's airmen dropped the world's first atomic bomb on Japan's war base at Hiroshima.

Few outside Japan had ever heard of Hiroshima before. But for the fateful chain of events that made it the target for civilization's first handful of disintegrating atoms, it probably would have remained through the years almost completely unknown to the outer world.

Now, because it has been struck by the giant hand of a mighty and mysterious force that mankind has never previously been able to unloose, its name has become overnight a household word throughout the globe. Generations of school children yet unborn will read of Hiroshima's fate and marvel.

Atomic Bomb Production Forces Russia's Role In Jap War To Background

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The nagging question of Russia's role in the Pacific war was pushed into the background today by the world-shaking announcement of atomic bomb production by Anglo-American scientists.

Disclosure that the United States and Britain had accomplished the miracle of harnessing the power of the universe into an awe-inspiring weapon against Japan served to explain why President Truman and his party to the Potsdam Big Three conference were believed not too greatly concerned over Russia's entrance into the Far Eastern war.

During his discussions with Premier Stalin, Mr. Truman, now en route home, knew of the terrific atom bomb and thus held the top card insofar as the Japanese conflict was concerned.

Gave Truman Details

It was learned that Secretary of War Stimson visited Berlin during the meeting to give Mr. Truman details of the perfection of the atomic bomb.

Before the President left Washington for the conference it was reported that Russia's position in the Pacific struggle was on the Big Three agenda and that the USSR held the high hand in any bargaining over Soviet intervention.

But the world and Stalin did not

Okinawa-Based Bombers Blast Tarumizu Port

Industrial And Waterfront Area Burned Out In Attack By 400 Bombers

DROP BOTH FIRE AND EXPLOSIVES

MANILA, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The industrial and waterfront area of the Japanese port of Tarumizu was believed burned out today in the wake of an attack by more than 400 Okinawa-based American planes.

Roaring flames swept over the city after the raid which was carried out Sunday as part of a 1,100-plane assault on Nippon by various U. S. air forces.

Plants Razed

Jap aircraft plants and other industrial war production installations being built to replace factories destroyed in other part of Japan were believed razed in the two-hour attack. Tarumizu, a city of 17,000 persons, lies on the south coast of Kyushu.

(BULLETIN)

GUAM, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The Japanese admitted what was called "considerable damage" today to the city of Hiroshima—first target of America's earth-shattering atomic bomb.

U. S. strategic air forces headquarters on Guam was silent concerning the atomic bombing of Hiroshima, but announced the daylight bombing of the Toyokawa naval arsenal 37 miles southeast of Nagova, today by 145 B-29s.

New Type Bombs

A Jap imperial headquarters communique, transmitted by the Domei agency, cautiously admitted that Hiroshima was damaged yesterday and said that "new-type bombs" apparently were employed in the attack.

This was the first acknowledgment by the Japs that Hiroshima had been subjected to an unusual attack. The Jap communique said that results of the attack were under investigation. The raiding force was described by the enemy as a small number of enemy B-29s.

Advised Petain To Oust Laval

Witness In Paris Trial Testifies Laval Was Under Suspicion Of Nazi Plotting

PARIS, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Former Interior Minister Marcel Peyrouton revealed today he had warned Marshal Henri Philippe Petain to oust Pierre Laval from the French cabinet because Laval was under suspicion of plotting with the Nazis.

Peyrouton's disclosure came at the opening of the 14th day of Petain's treason trial. The session was delayed more than an hour because of a breakdown in the Paris subway.

One stranded juror had to be brought to the courtroom by a special automobile before the trial could open.

Former Premier Plotting

Peyrouton told the court that before Laval resigned from Petain's cabinet rumors were current that the former premier was plotting with the Germans for the French to attack the Lake Chad region in Africa.

He asserted he had informed Petain of the rumors and had asked him to discharge Laval in order to prevent such an attack against the allies.

During his testimony, a juror asked Peyrouton if he had introduced racial laws in French concentration camps in agreement with Petain.

Peyrouton replied he had nothing to do with the racial laws and said they were set up by ministry of justice.

Admiral John Jean Fernet, who followed Peyrouton to the stand, testified concerning Petain's missions to London in an effort to obtain help for France.

CITY OF 75,000 DEVELOPS TO MAKE BOMBS

Persons Employed In Plant Didn't Know What They Were Manufacturing

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., Aug. 7.—(INS)—The atomic bomb unleashed with its frightful power for the first time against Japan was developed today with another miracle, a miracle of construction rather than destruction.

For the secret manufacture of the incredibly destructive bomb this once sleepy cross-road village in the east Tennessee hills was converted miraculously into a day-and-night busy city of 75,000, fifth largest city in the state.

And it is perhaps the strangest city, or one of the strangest in the United States.

Didn't Know Product

Until President Truman electrified the world yesterday by announcement that the United States now was manufacturing a bomb with the greatest destructive force in history, most of the thousands and thousands of workers had no idea of what they were making, or could they guess.

So iron-clad was the secrecy that one worker could not discuss with a fellow-employee in another department what part each was making.

Japan Hangs Out Olive Branch—But For Japan Alone

GUAM, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Japan hung the olive branch out today—for Japan.

The enemy controlled Shanghai radio in a broadcast to the Chinese people declared:

"No matter how badly Japan treated China—we must forgive Japan."

Touching the Potsdam ultimatum, the broadcaster blandly stated:

"Japan's future, whether life or death, will be decided in the near future.

"Even though Japan wishes to stop fighting and withdraw her troops—the United States unconditional surrender demands makes this impossible."

Express Relief Allies Beat Axis To Atomic Bomb

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 7.—(INS)—World-wide relief that the Allies beat Germany and Japan to the discovery of the atomic bomb was reflected today by the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyhete.

In an editorial, the newspaper asserted:

"The whole world feels relieved that the new weapon belongs to the nations fighting for humanity and freedom. America's and England's position has suddenly been strengthened to an incredible degree."

Prof. Manne Siegbahn, Swedish Nobel prize winner, declared that the atomic bomb means a new development in world history. He said that a missile the size of a matchbox is capable of throwing a battleship "kilometers aloft".

Chinese Forces Battle To Extend Holdings On Coast West Of Hong Kong

CHUNGKING, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Street fighting raged today inside the port city of Youngkong, which Chinese forces entered in their drive to extend their holdings on the south China invasion coast west of Hong Kong.

An official communique from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's headquarters revealed the penetration of Yeungkong, some 120 miles southwest of the huge port of Canton and scarcely 20 miles farther from Hong Kong.

The entry into Yeungkong was made on August 1 and street fighting started. The communique declared that the battle still raged seven days later.

On the night of August 3, however, Japanese forces in the areas north of Hsiakiang advanced along the east bank of the Kan river of Kiangsi province. The Japs reached Hsiakan, and continued pushing toward Changshuchong.

Japan Is Facing Surrender Or Ruin From Air

Atomic Bomb Launches New Era Of Explosive Energy Scientists Report

BLASTING POWER OF BOMB TITANIC

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Authoritative military observers in Washington today foresaw the prompt issuance of another surrender ultimatum to Japan backed by the persuasive force of the atomic bomb.

These highly qualified sources were unable to conceive how Japan can further resist unconditional surrender unless she wants to stand by and see her people annihilated.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The world faced a new era of explosive energy today as production of "atomic bombs" by Anglo-American scientists gave Japan a choice between immediate unconditional surrender and a rain of ruin from the air.

President Truman gave the Japanese this choice in announcing American possession of atomic bombs which have the blasting effect of 20,000 tons of TNH and are two thousand times more powerful than any explosive ever used by mankind.

Thompson said when Frazer gave him the message that he had received a letter yesterday from the English girl and she had not seemed impatient.

Frazer said the English girl introduced herself in a Swindon restaurant when she overheard a group of soldiers talking about Pittsburgh.

Control Over Production Of Bombs Problem

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Strategic decisions made at Potsdam, Yalta and Teheran were seen today as already outdated by the atomic bomb's discovery.

British military observers pointed out that strategy has taken on an entirely new aspect and that security no longer is definable by control of the Dardanelles and the Suez canal, and possession of rivers, mountains and military highways. Such aspects will not add an iota of strategic advantage in the event of further conflict, these circles added.

Control Problem

Far more important, they believe, is the question of control over the manufacture of the new bombs. The militarists feel it is unlikely at present that the secret will be shared by any one other than those directly concerned in the production.

However, the belief was expressed that consultations may begin to consider the control of the manufacture and use of the weapon once experts of the big three nations have had an opportunity to study all the strategic implications involved.

At the moment, experts have been unable to do anything more than to grasp the sheer magnitude of the revolution facing them. Nevertheless, they see a strengthening of the organization for making future conflict impossible as the immediate problem requiring speedy action by the big three.

Earth Shocks Are Recorded At Time Atomic Bomb Drops

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Seismographs in the United States were revealed today to have recorded earth shocks Sunday, the day the first atomic bomb was dropped on Japan.

The Rev. Joseph J. Lynch, seismologist, said the Fordham University seismograph recorded a tremor about 6:24 p. m. Sunday. The direction from which the earth shock came could not be determined with certainty, however, he said.

From Washington came word that the Georgetown University simultaneously recorded a slight tremor, but officials there regarded it unlikely that their instrument would be affected by the initial atomic bombing half a world away.

WESTINGHOUSE PLANTS AIDED BOMB PROJECT

PITTSBURH, Aug. 7—(INS)—Westinghouse Electric corporation disclosed today that 16 of its main plants and six district plants have been producing "apparatus as well as standard electric equipment for the atomic bomb project since January 1, 1943."

George H. Bucher, president of Westinghouse, released the statement with War Department approval.

"In addition the Westinghouse research laboratories at East Pittsburgh, Pa., and Bloomfield, N. J., have made significant contributions to the development of apparatus for the project.

"The major engineering and production effort has centered in the switchgear division of the East Pittsburgh works," he explained.

"The plants involved in the production program, Bucher said, are in Sharon, Derry, Trafford and Philadelphia, Pa.; Mansfield and Lima, O.; Baltimore, Md.; Bloomfield and Newark, N. J.; St. Louis, Mo.; Atlanta, Ga., and Boston, Mass.

"As Secretary Stimson stated yesterday," Bucher said, "it is hoped that one day it will be possible to reveal in greater detail the contribution made by industry.

ATOMIC BOMB ALTERS RUSSIAS ROLE IN JAP WAR

know what the President knew—that the U. S. and Britain were turning out a bomb that not only could wipe out Japan, but could level the entire earth.

Secret With U. S.

Mr. Truman is believed to have discussed the atomic bomb with Marshal Stalin but the President did not reveal any details. Its secret remains with only the Washington and London governments.

In a conference with reporters on the cruiser Augusta, which is bringing him home, the President said that the secret will not be revealed until after the peace of the world has been absolutely secured.

Russia's role in the Pacific war is still unknown to the world at large but observers say should she decide to enter the conflict the move would be more or less an anti-climax to development of the atomic bomb.

The Nipponese immediately sought to turn the latest development into a new propaganda subject. They said the principal reason for employment of the atomic bomb was American "impatience at the slow progress of the projected invasion of the Japanese mainland."

Employment of "such inhuman tactics," Domei said, "is sufficient to brand the enemy for ages to come as a destroyer of justice and mankind and public enemy number one of social justice."

Still Have To Invade

Sen. Burton (R) O., expressed the belief that while the war would be shortened by the new invention, "we will still have to invade Japan."

"You can't capture anything by bombing," he declared.

Sen. Magnuson (D) Wash., who admitted he had been pessimistic about the end of the war, conceded that "the results of the new bomb might destroy them very quickly unless they surrender."

Rep. Sabath (D) Ill., said the Japanese "higher-ups" would now probably be willing to surrender "to save their own lives," but suggested that the new power be placed under international control after the war.

Sen. Connally (D) Tex., asserted that "I hope they have plenty of atomic bombs and they cover Japan with them." The foreign relations committee chairman added that "unless the people of Japan are determined to commit hari kari, they should surrender."

TOYOKAWA NAVAL ARSENAL BOMBED BY B-29 RAIDERS

reporting the Toyokawa bombing failed to mention a raid which radio Tokyo said was carried out this morning against the Tokyo area by 40 American mustangs led by a lone B-29.

Damage In Toyokawa

Domei admitted that "some damage" was caused in Toyokawa by the B-29s which sent a rain of demolition bombs cascading on the Jap base for an hour and a half beginning at about 9:20 a. m.

President Truman first revealed that new atomic bombs had been dropped on Hiroshima and later the war department said results were apparently obscured by clouds of dust over the target.

The city which lies on the Inland sea, 20 miles southwest of Kure, may well have been wiped out by the tremendous force of the atomic bomb.

The Osaka radio disclosed that various train schedules in Hiroshima prefecture had been cancelled but did not mention these were in connection with the atomic bomb which packs a wallop equal to 40 million pounds of TNT.

Important Arsenal

The Toyokawa arsenal was described as the principal producer of naval ammunition for the dwindling imperial Jap fleet as well as machine-guns, aircraft cannon and ack-ack guns.

The raid on the arsenal was the first daylight strike by Superforts in several days. High explosive bombs were rained on the vital targets by the B-29s, which were escorted over their objectives by Iwo Jima based fighter planes.

Returning airmen reported results were "excellent", with fighter opposition "negligible" and weather good.

The communique from Spaatz also disclosed that formations of Mustangs, from bases at Iwo Jima, struck the Tokyo area on the morning of August 6. One Jap plane was destroyed on the ground, another two probably destroyed and 21 additional enemy planes damaged.

Radio Tokyo in a late broadcast claimed that 40 Iwo Jima based Mustangs led by a lone B-29 bombed and strafed the southwest section of the Tokyo-Yokohama district for about an hour this morning.

the Okinawa-based planes of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command was a long pier—apparently a catapult for rocket-propelled aircraft which may be the "secret weapon" which the Japs have threatened to use against invaders.

Fire And Explosives

Both fire and demolition bombs were dropped by the big force of American planes. More than 500 tons of incendiaries started fires which were visible for 30 miles and left smoke rising to 12,000 feet over the target area.

Returning pilots — veterans of both the European and Pacific theaters—said the destruction at Tarumizu was the "worst they had ever seen" according to a dispatch from International News Service War Correspondent Pat Robinson on Okinawa.

Runways Destroyed

Runways leading into caves—where aircraft plants apparently were set up—were destroyed and docks demolished in the shattering American attacks.

A 4,000-ton Jap freighter was sunk and a 10,000-ton cargo ship probably sunk in Tarumizu harbor by Liberators taking part in the raid.

MacArthur also listed an additional 22 Jap ships as sunk or damaged in raids against widespread targets ranging from the China coast to Borneo.

DROPPING OF ATOMIC BOMB LAUNCHES ERA OF HUGE POSSIBILITIES

of mathamatico-electro-physics which Uncle Sam's wizards of research and invention have accomplished, has been the dream of scientists for more than 50 years past, since modern knowledge of the atom's structure developed.

H. G. Wells wrote a scientific romance about atom smashing. Wells invented a war, too, for the purpose of his romance and had his hero win the conflict with exploding atomic fragments. Fiction in that instance proved prophetic.

Atoms of different substances vary in weight and characteristics but scientists believe that all of them can be exploded if a proper detonator is found and the [illegible] is worked out. [illegible] yield [illegible] energy.

This is the problem that Uncle Sam's scientists have solved. In all probability uranium, a metal resembling lead, is the material with which they worked. Tremendously important work in knocking apart the atoms of uranium was done in 1939 and 1940, and there are deposits of uranium ore in the areas where America's vast facilities for producing the new explosive are located.

New Metal Used

Uranium-235 was the name given to a variety of that metal whose atoms exploded like fire-crackers producing vast power. Drs. H. K. Kingdom and H. C. Pollock of General Electric isolated tiny quantities of U-235 before America entered the war.

But according to the [illegible] of Drs. Kingdom and Pollock of 1940 it would have taken hundreds of years to make a pound of uranium-235. American scientists evidently learned to speed that up. The size of the bomb used on Hiroshima is not revealed, but it has been estimated that a chunk of U-235 as big as a pea would destroy the Empire State building or propel the world's biggest liner across the Atlantic and back.

MAJ. BONG DIES IN PLANE TEST

from the Lockheed air terminal just four minutes after he took off at 2:30 p.m. PWT.

Eyewitnesses at the crash scene said the air hero perished desperately fighting to free himself from the plane so he could jump.

Horrified, Mrs. George H. Zape Jr., who lives near the crash scene, watched the air crash.

"I saw Major Bong jump out on the plane's fuselage, holding both hands above his head. I could plainly see him fighting to free himself. Then the smoke swept over him."

Crushed and burned Maj. Bong's body lay near the wreckage of his ship.

Partially Opened Parachute

Nearby lay his scorched partially opened parachute.

Witnesses reported that Maj. Bong's plane flew between rows of high tension wires and telephone lines as the ace deliberately sacrificed altitude to maneuver the ship away from the crowded residential section surrounding the field.

The ace's wife first heard the incredible news of his death at 4:10 p.m. PWT when she came home and turned on the radio in their Hollywood apartment to get the time.

FAITH

Quite often, people wonder what becomes of all the money from the sale of War Bonds. Sometimes, we are informed where some of it goes to.

We read that some of it is being spent in taking over and remodeling some of the finest hotels in the country, in order to furnish living quarters for some of our Jap prisoners.

We wonder sometimes, if our American boys are getting the same treatment.

The 1946 Budget

The revised federal budget for the 1946 fiscal year is a sobering document. It indicates very clearly that the nation's progress out of the war-created financial woods is not destined to be rapid despite the end of the fighting in Europe.

For example, war costs for the twelve months ending next June 30 are placed at $70,000,000,000. That happens to coincide with the estimate made in the name of the late President Roosevelt last January. But at that time it was said that the figure might be $80,000,000,000 or $60,000,000,000, depending on the course of the struggle. Now it appears that while victory over Germany has kept the total from rising, the hoped-for reduction has not materialized.

In fact, lend-lease which is still going out at the rate of $10,000,000,000 annually, more than covers the cost of all the aid other nations are furnishing in the struggle in the Pacific.

The revised budget also shows that other factors now entering into the equation must be taken into account. Because of changes in the tax laws, 1946 revenue will be $2,200,000,000 less than the Roosevelt estimate. Outgo will be $2,800,000,000 more, largely because of the cost of setting up the monetary machinery devised at Bretton Woods. Thus the deficit will be in excess of $46,000,000,000, though by reducing the Treasury's cash balance the increase in the public debt will be held to $36,500,000,000.

The revised budget emphasizes the fact that the government cannot hope to balance its books in the near future and, indeed, cannot hope to balance them at all unless all schemes for socialistic postwar government spending are scuttled at once in a manner that will leave their sponsors without hope for their revival.

A Telephone In Your Car

There is no end to progress, and what the postwar world will bring in the way of scientific advantages, as well as nuisances, is at this time almost anyone's guess. Take, for instance, the promise of a "mobile radiotelephone" for automobiles, trucks, etc.

The idea is that anyone within the area of the system—providing he is equipped with a radiotelephone—can "ring you up" whenever he pleases.

Such an innovation ought to double the number of telephones on the busy executive's desk and afford him twice the opportunity of close contact with his affairs. This is not to mention the advantage to the man who would like to get away from it all, for obviously, although the operator of the mobile radiotelephone can get you whenever he wishes, he has only to turn the blamed thing off to eliminate the possibility of your getting him.

Railroad Injury Rate Lowest In History

In order to correct erroneous impressions that have been caused by some railroad wrecks in recent years, the Association of American Railroads has made available statistics which should be comforting to the traveler.

The railroads have had to pick up virtually all of the increase in freight and passenger traffic caused by the war, with approximately the same number of cars which they had at the beginning of the war. But in spite of this, they are now carrying about four times the passengers they carried then. Furthermore, they are carrying nearly two and one-half times the passengers they did in the war year of 1918, with 30 per cent less equipment. Previous to this war, the railroads added more than 300 passenger-carrying cars a year, but during the whole of the present war they have been able to get only 150 new cars, and none within the past two years.

The 58th annual report of the Interstate Commerce Commission, on page 33 says: ". . . in each of the years following 1940, the passenger casualties, both fatal and nonfatal, averaged fewer per million passenger-miles than in 1940 . . ."

There is no desire to minimize the wrecks and injuries during the war years. But in relation to the tremendous increase in traffic and opportunity for injuries the fact stands out that the rate of injuries is the lowest in railroad history, and the railroad record for safety continues to be one of the nation's industrial marvels.

World Naval Strength

The disappearance, to all practical purposes, of the Japanese fleet clears the way for a new alignment of world naval strength which sees the United States, with its 1,322 fighting ships built in five war years, definitely installed as master of the seas with its two-ocean navy.

The French fleet, sunk at Mers El Kebir or scuttled at Toulon, is only a memory. The Richelieu, a comparatively new 35,000 ton battleship, is its only major unit. It has no carriers and too few cruisers.

What was left of the German fleet was very little and it is entirely in the hands of the United Nations.

Much of the Italian fleet survived by the simple process of remaining coy and hidden and refusing battle. Italy's fleet is today perhaps the third strongest in the world.

Numerous small Italian units, particularly submarines, have been lent to the Allies and are in action in the Far East against the common enemy, Japan. Italy hopes that on the basis of her present participation in the fight against Japan she will be able to keep her fleet at the final peace conference. France and Italy were once naval rivals in the Mediterranean. Now the very small Spanish fleet rivals the French fleet in strength.

It is historically interesting that at the same time our naval guns and our carrier and land-based planes are destroying almost completely the Japanese fleet, Russia has announced her intention of establishing a stronger Red fleet in the Pacific. It is 41 years since Russia disappeared as a world naval power with destruction of her fleet by the Japanese navy in those same eastern waters.

During the Soviet observance of Red Navy Day, Stalin said that the Russian people want a "still stronger and mightier navy and will create new fighting ships and new bases for it." Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said in a dispatch from Vladivostok that "an undisclosed number of warships had already been added to the Red Far Eastern fleet."

Regardless of the shifting of Russian strength to the Far East, no foreign navy of the five oceans can ever touch the American navy for strength or numbers, at least until we cease naval building and voluntarily lay up our ships.

Capital And Labor Conference Is Need

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Two old friends met the other day to talk over a worry that is up for discussion wherever people gather these days. One was Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan and the other was the new secretary of labor, Lewis Schwellenbach, who was a member of the Senate until he resigned in 1940 to become a judge.

They talked about the looming hostility between labor and capital, union and management. Out of their talk came Vandenberg's proposal for a nationwide conference of top men on both sides of the industrial fence, together with representatives of government.

Schwellenbach liked the idea. He has no illusions, however, that there is any easy answer.

You cannot impose labor peace by law, as the new secretary of labor very well knows. Recently he has been looking into the workings of the compulsory arbitration law in Australia. Australia has had more strikes, in proportion to the number of men working, than we've had in this country.

Of First Importance

One reason Schwellenbach is sympathetic to the conference idea is because he feels that confidence and understanding, which can be built up only slowly, are of first importance. To give his old friend, the Michigan senator, an idea of the difficulties in the way of understanding, he told him a story of another conference.

A labor leader came to see Schwellenbach to ask him to call a meeting of union and management in a certain industry. He explained that the heads of two or three big firms would not respond to a request for such a meeting when it was made by the union.

"But if you call it, they will have to come because of public opinion," said the union man.

It sounded like a good idea, and Schwellenbach began to ask a few questions. Weren't there representatives of the rival union in one or two plants? Yes, came the answer, they had majorities in three firms. Well then, said Schwellenbach, we'll have to call them in, too.

"In that case," the union leader said, "we would not attend the conference."

One Of Difficulties

At first the secretary of labor thought he hadn't heard right. But when it was made perfectly plain that this was the man's final stand, Schwellenbach said there would be no conference.

This is fairly typical of the bitterness across the great divide within the ranks of labor. The other day in a slam-bang speech, William Green issued a new declaration of war with the charge that the CIO was dominated by Communists.

As Vandenberg talked about it, the union-management angle was not his only worry. The possibilities of trouble cover so much more territory than that, and particularly in Detroit, the industrial capital of Vandenberg's own state.

To Detroit have come war workers from all over America. The tensions are between race and race, between folks from one region and folks from another region, between religionists of one creed and another creed, between one set of bosses and another set of bosses.

Tensions Are Severe

As Vandenberg pointed out, all this is aggravated by the irritations and frustrations of four years of war—all the dammed-up grievances and strains that come with worry over sons and husbands and fathers in battle, with difficult working and living conditions, with shortages and rising prices. There were the same tensions at the end of World War I, which didn't last half so long as this one. They blew off in rioting and violence.

Senator Vandenberg's proposal to get men to sit down around a table and try to reason out their proposal is one hundred per cent sound. A lot of spadework must be done to prepare the way for it.

Perhaps it should be broadened to include groups in conflict, or maybe other related conferences should be held. Anyway, it's hard to see how anything could be lost by such a meeting and maybe a great deal can be gained.

EXTRACTIONS

The dentist said: "Again I'll see
If more must now extracted be.
Aha!" he cried, "beyond a doubt
You're keeping two that should be out!
You know there's many a floral wreath
Would not be bought except for teeth!"

"Two more to lose!" said: "'Tis plain You've taken more than now remain."
"I know," he answered. "Better far,
Whenever teeth infected are,
To have them out than risk the grave.
Merely a tooth or two to save.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:53. Sun rises tomorrow 6:12.

The moment you make a man feel the weight of an obligation he will become your enemy.

Never trust the man in difficulties.

DEFINITION

In days of old, "grub" meant something to eat. Now, however, it's getting to the point where we have to forget that old meaning and believe the dictionary when it says grub means "to dig up." And grubbing grub is getting more difficult every day. Even turkey and chicken are being crossed off the restaurant menus most of the time.

The man down the street went to a lunch counter and asked for a turkey sandwich.

"Sorry," said the counterman, "we're out of turkey."

"Then give me a chicken sandwich," our man said.

"Look," the counterman replied, "Would I refuse you a turkey sandwich if we had any chicken?"

Freedom unifies us all. Even a jaded $40 plow mule arches his neck and trots high like a $300 mule when he gets loose.

He who commences many things finishes but few.

Speaking of claims we heard about a girl who was to be a star witness and who went to a dressmaker.

"I want an outfit for the trial," she said.

"Let me see," mused the dressmaker. "You'll want a direct testimony suit, then you'll need a cross-examination gown, and by all means you must have something dainty and clinging to faint in."

TOO BOUNTIFUL

The farmer and his wife prayed that a child would be born to them to relieve their only loneliness.

Triplets arrived.

Prayers are always answered, their minister told them.

"That's so," said the farmer, "but we never prayed for no bumper crop like that."

With a look of disgust on his face the minister stepped back and addressed the cow in this manner:

VISITING CARD INFORMATION

"Give me, please, information on visiting cards. What does it mean when they are turned down at the corners? How should a caller present a card? Should a married woman, making a call, leave her joint card? On just what occasions should cards be left?"

Answer: Cards are always used when sending wedding gifts or any other gift or funeral flowers and for any of these the joint "Mr. and Mrs." card may be used.

For making general social calls, even people of high social standing rarely leave cards nowadays. This is especially true of young moderns who have their own circle of friends who exchange visits with little thought of card-leaving. But for the few occasions when formal calls are made, it is necessary to know the etiquette of card leaving.

A married woman, calling alone, on another woman and her husband leaves one of her own cards and two of her husband's. Her card is for Mrs. Blank, her husband's are one for Mrs. Blank and the other for Mr. Blank. She should not, for this purpose, leave their joint card. The idea is that women visit women and men visit both men and women.

The turned-down visiting card, now almost a thing of the past, has various meanings: one that it was left at the door in person and not sent in an envelope. Another that it was left for all of the women of the family. It is a rare gesture now.

A visiting card is never handed to the host, hostess or any other member of the family. It is presented to the servant, if there is one, who usually has a tray for this occasion. If there is no servant, it is placed on a tray kept near the door for this purpose.

The Parent Problem

ALLOWANCE TEACHES CHILD TO BUDGET

Because the average child, particularly before the age of 15 or 16, is not able to earn at normal employment, he needs to have an allowance.

Of course, some parents, supposing the child should earn all the money he spends (and spend all the money he earns!) pay him for the jobs he does about the home. In an earlier article, I said this plan is poor because it does not train the child in a wholesome feeling of obligation as a member of his family group; that it rarely works out well, since often the child is nagged or punished to make him do the jobs to earn the money or, this failing, he may be given the pay without having earned it; that any plan by which his "earnings" are rendered irregular hinders his getting the budget-principle of certainty and definiteness of amount.

Money Values Acquired

Then how is the child to learn money values without first earning all he spends? In two ways, through being held strictly to a budgeted allowance which won't supply nearly all he would like to have, and through sharing the duties about the home. After all, these necessary home jobs, which often are drudgeries, are a part of the means of earning the family income. You see, what the mother does in caring for the household is just as truly a contribution to the earnings of the family as the money the husband brings in from his daily work outside the home.

Unfortunately too few fathers realize this fact and, in consequence, don't attach due weight to the wife's job in terms of indirect financial contribution. Relatively few husbands, even today, feel that what the wife and mother does can be as important as his job in terms of the family finances. This fact explains why so many husbands assume they should tell the wife what money she may spend instead of their working out together a plan for spending the family income, or having a joint bank account.

Masculine Tradition

The foregoing masculine tradition also explains why so many boys believe they are sissies when they wash dishes, scrub floor or help with the family laundry. Let no one fear that the boy or girl who is trained to help as he should at home and is limited wisely through a good allowance plan to the amount of money he may have to spend won't learn well the value of money.

When, on the other hand, you dole out to the child certain amounts of money every time he says he wants it, his learning of self-denials and planning will depend on how great resistance you can put up against his increasing demands for money and his ability to overcome these resistances. This handing out money in small bits irregularly to a child due to the wife is almost sure to arouse irritations and arguments. It certainly may be a very humiliating experience for the child or wife. Self-respect and independence, not to mention opportunities for planning ahead, are among the foremost arguments for an allowance. Moreover, the child operating within a budget spends less than operating otherwise.

The World and the Mud Puddles

STRANGE POLITICS

It is somewhat surprising to learn that the Democratic majority in the Senate has turned thumbs down on Mr. Truman's proposed presidential succession bill and that the measure is regarded by the privileges and elections committee as "dead." The explanation of this attitude of the majority Senators possibly lies in the change in the State department. With Mr. Stettinius eliminated as a possible President, and Mr. Byrnes perfectly satisfactory as a regular Party man, the colleagues of the latter doubtless feel that the situation is well in hand for the present, at least.

The adverse attitude of the majority Senators, of course, ignores the merits of the President's proposal—that the Speaker of the House, in the absence of the Vice-President, assume the Presidency. This is a sound and democratic method of succession. The Speaker of the House, in accordance with tradition, must be a man of large experience and long service. He must submit himself to his constituents for approval or disapproval every two years. He represents the majority in the House of Representatives, which is the body closest to the people and which most accurately reflects current popular opinion.

The Secretary of State is not elected, but appointed. He may have had no experience of value in government and no general knowledge of governmental affairs. The nature of his official labors had to do only with foreign affairs. As Mr. Truman pointed out, succession of the State Department head to the executive post enables a President to choose his own possible successor—a procedure certainly repugnant to democratic government and American tradition.

If the Senate persists in ignoring or opposing the President's recommendation in the proposed succession Bill, it will be generally adjudged guilty of cheap political temporizing and negligence of a vital, urgent matter.

Truman "Missouri Waltz" Hits Potsdam Note
President Plays While Stalin Listens Well
Debate Effect Of Bombing On World Weather

By HELEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—It appears to me that one of the few satisfactory situations in this world of double dealing and delirium is the emergence of good simple Americanism. Straightforward Americanism without fuss or apology.

I am speaking especially of Potsdam and the goings-on there. The goings-on that we know a whiff about.

What, for example, could be more perfect Americana than the theme song of Potsdam——? I laughed and I laughed when I read in the midst of the European flub-dub and evasion: Harry T. Truman of Independence, Mo., U. S. A., had sat down at the piano and played "The Missouri Waltz."

While the nimble presidential fingers were racing over the keys of the late Kaiser's piano (it may have been the late Kaiser's piano—anyhow it was an enemy piano) and the mostly good presidential toe was thumping out the notes in three-quarter time, two-thirds of the Big Three sat and listened. I'd love to know what Messrs. Stalin and Churchill thought as they listened. Or maybe it would be better not to know.

"The Missouri Waltz" and the playing thereof by the president of the United States possibly introduced a new era in international diplomacy. It might seem from this first step that "The Beautiful Blue Danube" and "Britannia Rules the Waves" might be dated.

Society Reports Meeting

We've got rivers and water in this country. And I'm mighty glad Mr. Truman keeps his mind on United States geography when he is far away in the black forests of the continent.

Perhaps the great statesmen knew what they were about when they closed the meetings of the Potsdam conference to the press, which of course is the public. However I think the joke is on the statesmen. That item about "The Missouri Waltz" revealed the tone of the conference more clearly than acres of detailed news releases.

The stories about Potsdam thus far might have been written by society reporters. "Mr. Truman wore a brown suit." "Stalin was in fawn-colored broadcloth with a gold star." "Churchill wore fawn color." "After dinner a concert was given. Among the artists playing were . . ."

Many wise people have said the most important writing in Washington is done by society reporters. It would seem the same statement is true of Potsdam.

Later, of course, sizable stuff will trickle through to the public. It certainly has a right to know facts and no gossip about the sort of bargains being made with own goods and lives.

War and Weather

In a recent column I wrote about the great deal of rain Washington has had this summer. Now let me call your attention to the belief by some people of moderate intelligence that "this peculiar weather we've been having is the result of atmospheric changes caused by so much bombing."

"Ridiculous," says the weather bureau. "Bombings may cause disturbances of the air, may push the clouds about and bring on slight regional upsets. But you cannot blame the unusual precipitation in July on the war."

Maybe the weather bureau doesn't know all there is to know. Some military experts say this rain is one of the unusual weather of war. You can't explode millions of tons of gunpowder [illegible] affecting the atmosphere. It may even be possible that the [illegible] out of its axis. Changed the [illegible] the wind and rainfall.

"I can't hope that the weather [illegible] [illegible] the military [illegible]," a [illegible] said. "Experiments have pretty generally failed after great battles."

I can only hope that when the directors sets that point the [illegible] will be shaking violently. I'd rather have you say, "What weather!" than "What? Another drizzle!" Sure I know it's going. I'm just a victim of the rain.

LOOKING AT LIFE
By ERICH BRANDEIS

A six-year old boy was drowned in the rain-swollen waters of New York's Bronx River while attempting to rescue a tiny alley cat.

The boy, little Thomas De Gaglia, was playing with two pals on the river bank when he saw the cat struggling in the water.

He took off his shoes and socks and waded into the river which, at this particular point, is usually about two feet deep. But the heavy rains had swollen it to a depth of ten feet.

As Thomas neared the cat the waters swirled over his head and he disappeared. The cat, meanwhile, made its way to the bank and scampered away.

The boy's friends called the police who sent an emergency squad, but no trace of him could be found. He had been swept out into the sea.

John, one of his pals, sobbed: "I told him not to go into the water, but he said he wouldn't let a little cat drown."

I am telling you this story because it is so much better a true picture of the qualities of childhood than those sordid reports of juvenile delinquency you read so much these days.

I may be repetitious, but I don't think that you can say enough about the subject.

Little Thomas De Gaglia was a poor man's son, living in a poor man's neighborhood.

But he had the natural instinct of any child—to help the weaker and to do what is right.

"He said he wouldn't let a little cat drown."

Somebody must have taught him that sense of duty—or may be it was just the natural impulse of any human being to be human.

During my years as a newspaper man I have met murderers and thieves and swindlers and gangsters as well as statesmen and prima-donnas and movie stars and college professors.

Maybe I am just a natural-born Pollyanna when the customary result of experience is supposed to be cynicism and disillusion.

But somehow, the more I see of people, the more I believe that basically they are all pretty good material for good citizenship and a world of peace and happiness.

But along come poverty and pride and greed and vanity and lust, and pretty soon there is juvenile delinquency and crime and war.

Little Thomas De Gaglia died in trying to rescue a cat in distress.

I think if he had lived he would have grown up to lessen the distress of his fellow men to the extent of his ability.

Scientists are looking for a cure for tuberculosis. It looks as though they would find it pretty soon.

It would be wonderful to rid us of this terrible disease. Until the cure is found we must do what we can with what we have.

If the disease is found in the early stages and properly treated, the results are usually very good.

SALE OF CURB PARKING

Curb parking is getting to be big business. According to the American Municipal Association, 431 cities were operating a total of 300,000 parking meters on January 1 of this year, and during 1944 the meters took in $10,000,000.

The number of meters ranged from 17 at Culpepper, Va., to 3,660 in Cleveland, whose take was $251,000.

This was in a period when driving and the need to park were at low levels. It requires no very fertile imagination to see a tremendous spree in the use of parking meters in the years ahead.

While the necessity of the meter has made city ordinance rulers not always agree by the courts in regard to the "tax" for using streets, the courts being that the "meters are for the time." But the use of meters must be regulated, and it is as regulators that the meters usually find legal justification.

Regardless of legal aspects, there are many who view it as dubious economy to allow large areas of already inadequate city streets to be used for parking, even when a fee keeps the parkers on the move. The best of all answers to the downtown parking problem is off-the-street parking.—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

The State Police Say:

A flat tire is not a reasonable excuse for parking on the highway. It is particularly dangerous after dark. In many cases a passenger from the disabled vehicle, or the operator himself will be seen standing in such a manner that the rear light is obscured to oncoming traffic. If the trouble occurs at a place where there is diminished natural visibility such as hills, curves, etc., the danger is doubled. Never park on a highway where it is possible to pull onto the berm.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Report Woman Is 'Fleeced' Of $188

Captain of Police W. G. McMullen today was investigating a racket in which a colored woman and a white woman flimflammed a 70-year-old woman out of $188, in the central part of the city yesterday.

They reportedly found valuable documents on which there was a reward of $1,000 and asked the local woman to put up $188, to show her honesty in helping to return the documents and receive her share of the reward.

After giving the blonde her money, the local woman was directed to an "office" in a local bank building which did not exist and when she returned to inform the bunco artists, they had escaped. It happened at noon Monday and was reported to Captain McMullen at 10 a.m. today.

Vatican Spokesman Expresses Shock Over Atomic Bomb

ROME, Aug. 7.—(INS)—A Vatican spokesman expressed "great shock" today over the news of the discovery of the atomic bomb. He warned that "its use and use of similar death dealing instruments can only lead to the satanic destruction of the human race."

The spokesman said the Holy See was profoundly impressed but worried over the use of the atomic bomb and what it presages for the future.

The Vatican newspaper, Osservatore Romano, in its lead editorial today reflected the attitude of the church. It said:

"The continuation of the cult of force is so far removed from the humanitarian sentiment and sense of responsibility which animated—to furnish but one example—Leonardo Da Vinci, who after discovering the principles of the submarine, preferred their destruction rather than give them up to the world as a new death weapon."

Carrier Group 46 Did Fine Job

Carrier Group Credited With Destroying 122 Jap Planes And 34 Ships

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Carrier air group 46 was disclosed today to have destroyed 122 Japanese airplanes and 34 enemy vessels before returning to the United States for leave and reassignment.

Forty-six participated in a raid on the Japanese homeland in February, sweep the nests of the Kamikaze in Kyushu and supported the Iwo Jima and Okinawa operations.

Self-dubbed "The Orphans" because the united changed parent carriers several times, "46" was a night air group composed of TBM Avenger torpedo bombers and F6F Hellcat fighters which flew from the decks of independence-class carriers.

Scourge To Japs

Led by Cmdr. Carl W. Rooney, USNR, Pensacola, Fla., "The Orphans" shot down 26 airborn Japs, destroyed 96 Japanese planes on the ground, sank 34 and damaged 18 enemy vessels.

Airborne planes destroyed included some Franks and Jacks, the Japs' most modern fighters, the group said.

The unit was said to have destroyed many miscellaneous targets on the ground in the Japanese home islands, including 14 hangars. It was also credited with inflicting serious damage on the Nakajima Tama aircraft factory near Tokyo.

More than 7,400 combat hours were flown by fighter pilots alone.

JAPAN IS FACING SURRENDER OR RUIN FROM AIR

an isolated New Mexican district proved it would dissolve steel into gas.

The atomic bomb was produced by Anglo-American scientists in huge factories near Knoxville, Tenn., and Pasco, Wash., in a two billion dollar gamble that won for the allies the newst and most deadly of all war weapons.

New Era of Atomic Energy

Allied scientists declare the atomic bomb has ushered the world into an era of atomic energy, which can bring tremendous new power developments to all peoples.

Peacetime exploitation of this amazing scientific discovery, however, must await further experimentation. The president and Secretary of War Stimson warned that it cannot be turned to peaceful use at the present.

There is a danger that use of this discovery—the so-called "splitting of the atom"—might bring utter destruction to the United States and the rest of the world.

Scientists say that the "splitting of the atom" in small doses has been understood throughout the war. The great allied discovery was how to use this knowledge to turn the "splitting of the atom" into a military weapon.

Second Tremendous Discovery

The second tremendous discovery was how to transport this activity—the splitting of millions of atoms simultaneously—to a spot over the enemy. In other words, the tremendous discovery was to turn atom-splitting into a deadly bomb that could be carried across the Pacific ocean and dropped on Japan.

It was apparent from the statements of the president and Stimson that the allied scientists have produced a method by which they can tell in advance the exact second at which their doctored atoms will explode. The war department's account of the New Mexican experiment showed that the explosion created a blinding light, turned steel into gas, blew men down ten miles away, made a blind girl see land 120 miles away, dissolved clouds and opened the earth.

All the present explosive discoveries are based on splitting the atom of uranium. Uranium is one of the most solid substances that exist in the earth. An atom is the smallest possible division of matter.

Epochal Discovery

Allied scientists apparently have discovered how to use a disinteg-rating atom of some other element to finish the uranium atom, which explodes with frightful power when split.

It is certain, however, that the Anglo-American scientists working in American laboratories and factories have brought the world to the edge of a new age—the atomic age.

The astounding new discovery—long talked of by scientists and military experts—was made known by President Truman just 16 hours after the bomb fell. The nature of its delivery, other than that it was delivered by plane, was not clear.

Military men and scientists alike described it as a weapon so terrible that it might insure peace forever. They foresaw possibilities in behalf of civilization which may revolutionize all peacetime life and open up new horizons hitherto unsuspected.

Plan Control

To assure the United States top place in peacetime development, Mr. Truman announced that he will ask congress to name a commission to "control the production and use of atomic power within the United States."

In his formal statement he recounted the furious race which has been going on in utmost secrecy by the allies for the development of atomic power for war purposes. Its use at this time he blamed on Japan itself which has had a chance, since July 26, to accept the terms of surrender offered in the three-power Potsdam ultimatum demanding she quit the war now or be destroyed.

Rain of Ruin

"If they do not now accept our terms," he said, "they may expect a rain of ruin from the air, the like of which has never been seen on this earth."

His statement was taken to imply that the bomb already developed into new and more effective forms will shatter the Jap islands into oblivion.

Following the first terrible explosion in Hiroshima, it was believed that the allies will give a few—but not many—days to Tokyo to make up its mind. Then the deluge will fall.

The president revealed that a frantic race for the use of atomic energy has been going on between Germany and the western powers since the beginning of the war.

Says Thousands Share In Credit For Atomic Bomb

BERKELEY, Cal., Aug. 7.—(INS)—Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence, creator of the atom-smashing cyclotron precursor of the atomic bomb, said today that man need not worry about disintegration of his health.

"We're winning greater and greater control over nature," he explained in response to expressed fears that the new super-weapon unleashed on Japan might touch off an unending chain reaction of atomic explosions.

Harnessing of the world's most terrific force into a missile first used to hit the Jap city of Hiroshima with the force of more than 20,000 tons of TNT will, said Dr. Lawrence, "surely shorten the war."

Credit for development of the bomb itself, he said, should be shared by thousands of persons.

"The genius and inspiration leadership of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, University of California physicist, was cited by Dr. Lawrence as largely responsible for America's atomic bomb.

Dr. Oppenheimer is now directing the atomic bomb project laboratory at Los Alamos, N. M.

In forecasting a shortening of the war by the new weapon, Dr. Lawrence also expressed the hope that atomic bombs will effectively end war as a possibility in human affairs.

Warns Of Gigantic Destructive Power In Atomic Bomb

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Sir John Anderson, research worker who aided in the development of the new atomic bomb, warned today that it would be a wea..... of "limitless destruction" unless the world employed the new force wisely.

In an interview in the London Daily News, Sir John said that there had been no effective approach as yet to the problem of harnessing atomic power.

"This is something entirely new," he said. "The door has been opened by the world of science but what's on the other side remains to be seen.

"It may be a vast storehouse of beneficial power or a limitless power for destruction. It depends upon the wisdom of the nations of the world."

The scientist added that the heat created by the exploding bomb probably was higher than the burning gasses in the center of the sun.

"Yet the amount of energy thus far developed is only a fraction of the amount that is theoretically possible for at present a lot of material is lost in the explosion. In a matter of 20 years we might see some progress toward developing controls for this tremendous power."

He added that the development of the bomb "transcends the discovery of electricity."

Milk Crisis Is Averted By Drive For Milk Bottles

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7—The splendid response of housewives, storekeepers and apartment house operators to an appeal for the return of idle milk bottles is responsible for the continuance of normal milk deliveries in Philadelphia, Thomas Wadcell, vice president and general manager of the newly formed Milk Distributors Association of Philadelphia, said yesterday.

With bottle manufacturers months behind in deliveries, a critical shortage of bottles faced milk distributors here. However, thousands of milk bottles have been returned to service after months of dis-use.

"A crisis has been averted," Mr. Waddell said, "but the urgent need to get every milk bottle back into service will continue throughout the year."

Mr. Waddell also stated that the Milk Distributors Association was formed to promote a better public understanding of the problems involved in producing, processing and distributing more than one million quarts of milk daily in the Philadelphia area.

The U. S. Coast Guard was founded in 1790 by Alexander Hamilton to combat smuggling.

No Campaign To Urge Soldier Vote

HARRISBURG, Aug. 7—(INS)—The state elections bureau emphasized today that no campaign would be launched to persuade servicemen and women to vote in the general election November 6.

A spokesman pointed out that service personnel over 21 years of age could obtain local and state-wide ballots by writing to the bureau of county election officials. Applications do not have to be sworn.

Under the revised election code county boards must mail military ballots not later than September 29.

Books Tell How To 'Make It Do'

In the display case of the entrance hall of the public library a number of books stressing the thought "use it up, make it do, wear it out," are on display.

From them may be obtained a number of ideas on sewing, mending, making over, conservation of fabrics, homecraft and handicraft, and family saving and spending in wartime, Miss Alice Sterling, librarian, points out.

TRIAL WITHOUT JURY

Before Judge W. Walter Braham on Monday morning the case of the commonwealth against Joseph Braunstein of Pittsburgh was heard without a jury. Mr. Braunstein is charged with aiding and assisting in the maintenance of gambling apparatus. At the same time the district attorney, Leroy K. Donaldson, presented a petition asking that a number of punch boards and other illicit materials be confiscated by the county.

INCREASE MAINTENANCE COST

In the future, the maintenance of totally disabled persons in the county home will cost $40 per month where they are able to pay. The increase came about when Commissioner Travers pointed out that pensions to the blind had been raised from $30 per month to $40.

It is customary for the county home to take the assistance check for their maintenance in the home, he said. Totally disabled persons require much more attention than those who are not. Travers pointed out, and other counties have taken the same step.

Gen. Eisenhower Tells Germans Of Hard Times Ahead

BERLIN, Aug. 7—(INS)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told the German people that hard times lie ahead.

The general, in an official message, advised the German nation that all signs point to shortage of food, fuel, housing and transport but the Germans "need not face the future without hope."

The American supreme commander told the defeated Germans that the Allied de-nazification program already was successful and that the German nation's power to make war will be destroyed completely.

"You can redeem yourselves," the general said, "both at home and in the eyes of the world through your own efforts. It lies within your power ultimately to build a healthy democratic life in Germany and rejoin the family of nations.

"To achieve this you must show you have forever abandoned militarism and aggression and have adopted a peaceful way of life."

ATOMIC BOMB

The development of the new atomic bomb is the product of many minds, but future generations probably will identify a modest University of California physicist as the father of the atomic age.

He is Dr. Ernest Orlando Lawrence, who will celebrate his 41st birthday tomorrow.

It was Dr. Lawrence's invention of the cyclotron, an atom-smashing machine, for which he won the 1939 Nobel prize, that first fired the popular imagination with the staggering potentialities of atomic energy.

Dr. Lawrence at the time was more interested in curing than killing, and his cyclotron was hailed as a possible means of checking the scourge of cancer.

His research work almost ever since has been shrouded in secrecy, but news dispatches now reveal that he was one of the many scientists who for the last four years have been developing the atomic bomb.

Dr. Lawrence, a native of Canton, S. D., holds degrees from the University of South Dakota, the University of Michigan, University of Chicago, Princeton and Yale and has taught at Yale as well as the University of California.

'Hero's Memorial' Book Racket Fools Soldiers' Families

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 7—(INS)—Col. Lucius McK. Crumrine, commanding officer of the army's Pittsburgh sub-district, today scored fraudulent schemes to hoodwink the families of war casualties and called for cooperation to stamp out these practices.

The schemes assume various forms, Colonel Crumrine, but one of the most common is the "Hero's Memorial Book" racket.

The racketeer informs a family he needs more information about their dead relative whom he will place in the book he is publishing. Money in advance is asked.

"When the money is sent, that's the last that is heard from the lowest of all crooks," the Colonel said. Vigorous action will be taken promptly by the post office department, he said, as soon as such cases are uncovered.

Six Local Stores Pay Total Of $600 For OPA Violations

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 7—Cracking down on ceiling price violators in the New Castle area, the OPA, through action of the local Price Panel Board, assessed six New Castle merchants a total of $600 in treble damage claims.

Admitting violations, two of the offenders paid $200 each. They were John S. Wasilewski, 2901 Hamilton street, and Rocco Pacilio, 726 East Long avenue. Mrs. Leah Borsuvitz, Croton street, was assessed $100 for violations, and H. A. Brush, Hanna street extension, paid $50. Nick Toscano, 811 Harrison street, and Mike Lalama, 3 West Long avenue, each paid $25 for overcharging, the OPA announces.

Little Job Grew Up; 3,500 Magazines Are Given To GI's Daily

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 7—(INS)—Two Pittsburgh women, who shortly after Pearl Harbor undertook the task of supplying troop trains passing through Pittsburgh with magazines, have seen their venture grow to such proportions that it is now necessary to have 3,500 new magazines on hand daily for distribution.

The movement, supported by the USO and towns in the Pittsburgh area, functions seven days a week. Recently, according to the founders who wish to remain anonymous, the committee in charge serviced 190 cars in one day.

Claire Kohn Will Get B.A. Degree

Claire Alice Kohn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Kohn of 415 Park avenue, will be graduated Thursday evening from the Pennsylvania State college, State College, Pa., and will receive her liberal arts degree.

Attending the commencement exercises from this city will be her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Kohn of 415 Park avenue.

Miss Kohn is receiving her degree in less than three years time, due to the accelerated course now used in war times. She is quite active at the school, being senior advertising manager of plays at the college, and she wrote an article, "Crews Cues Curtain", for the Penn State Engineering publication. Miss Kohn was also the assistant director of the important college play, "Guest in the House".

CHARGE BRITAIN'S ATOMIC EXPERT HELD BY RUSSIA

LONDON, Aug. 7—(INS)—The London Evening Standard charged today that Britain's leading atomic expert has been held by the Russians ever since 1935.

The publication asserted that Russian-born Professor Peter Kapitza was apprehended during a visit to his native land 10 years ago and never was permitted to leave.

Cambridge university built a $60,000 laboratory specifically for Kapitza, who already had produced magnetic fields five times as powerful as any others when he accepted an invitation to attend a Moscow convention.

O.W.I. Broadcasts Information On Atomic Bombs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7—(INS)—The Office of War Information broadcast immediately to the Japanese people and their government the news that they may expect unparalleled destruction from the allies' newest and most terrible weapon—the atomic bomb.

Hail Discovery Of Atomic Bomb

Conjecture On Possible Result Of Harnessing Atomic Energy In Peacetime Pursuits

LONDON Aug. 7—(INS)—Perfection of the atomic bomb was hailed in London today as "the greatest scientific discovery in history," a discovery bound to bring untold peace-time benefits.

An official statement on the future of atomic power in the field of industry came from a ministry of aircraft production representative. He declared that if the force in one of the bombs could be harnessed industrially it would be equivalent to driving the superliner Queen Mary across the Atlantic ocean with but a tea-cup of fuel.

However, the official added it may be 20 years before the theory could be perfected to apply it in such a way.

Sir John Anderson, who was responsible for much research on the atomic bomb, termed the amount of energy locked up in the missile as "prodigous" and added that the problem for controlling its release has not yet been solved.

"I do not doubt that it will be solved," Anderson added, "a great deal of work will have to done. There are great possibilities if energy on the scale represented in the bomb is made available to drive machinery and provide sources of power which might produce something revolutionizing industrial life."

Doctor Slade, research controller of the imperial chemical industries, declared that there have been "some extravagant rumors" about the harnessing of atomic power, but added: "Use of the bomb seems to show that there is no doubt that the energy is there. It seems to have done what was expected of it.

"We know how to bottle up and release it. The next thing to discover is how to harness it to serve industry."

Sen. McKellar Orders Cut In Expenditures

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7—(INS)—Sen. Kenneth McKellar (D) Tenn., acting chairman of the senate appropriations committee, today ordered his staff to seek ways to cut federal expenditures.

"We've got to cut down expenses", said McKellar. "We are going to try it when the next budget bills are approved."

Surveying the astronomical war expenditures, together with the rising public debt, McKellar said that one of the chief tasks confronting congress in the next 12 months will be to safeguard the nation's finances.

National Debt Climbs

With war expenditures estimated at seventy billion dollars a year during the Pacific conflict, appropriations for international relief and finance, together with domestic expenses, are estimated to be enough to leave the nation with a deficit of over 36 billions at the end of the year. The national debt, it is estimated, will reach nearly 300 billion dollars by next July 1.

"We have not only got to cut down expenses but we also have got to cut our war-time taxes when the Japanese are defeated," said McKellar.

"I will urge upon the administration, and I am sure it will cooperate in every way possible, to cut down on expenditures."

See Opposition

The movement to economy, however, is likely to collide with demands in congress for huge appropriations for postwar purposes.

The most far-reaching bill pending is the "full employment" measure. Under its theory, the government would spend money for public works whenever private enterprise leaves men jobless.

The program, it is conceded, would be far more ambitious and expensive than the works progress administration of the early new deal. Under that program "security wages" were paid to the unemployed. Under the "full employment" bill regular wages would be paid.

Young Veteran, 17, Is Killed When Car Crashes Into Creek

CARLISLE, Pa., Aug. 7—(INS)—Pfc. Marlin L. Weigle of Carlisle, 17-year-old veteran of eight months fighting in Europe, was fatally injured last night when an automobile tumbled into a creek near Mt. Holly on the Greensburg-Carlisle pike.

Leroy E. Comp, 17, the driver, said Wiegle was standing on the runningboard after helping push the car following motor trouble. Comp and Donald Monismith, 15, of Carlisle escaped injury.

Weigle enlisted in the army at the age of 15, according to state police, and had been furloughed at Indiantown Gap after he had returned from Europe and service with the third army.

Cumberland County Coroner E. A. Haegele said questioning revealed that Comp had steered the car near some bushes in an attempt to "scare" Weigle when the car ran over the bank. Comp was released in the custody of his parents, Haegele said, pending an inquest.

Luce Doesn't Rob Glory Of Stars In Stage Debut

"Adequate" Is Comment On Versatile Blonde Congresswoman's Performance

By INEZ ROBB
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 7.—The shades of Sarah Bernhardt, Mme. Duse and Minnie Maddern Fiske can continue to rest in peace. The advent of a new stage aspirant, Miss Clare Boothe, at Stamford's summer theater last night will not dim the luster of their star strewn names.

Miss Boothe, who quadruples in brass as author, editor, playwright and Congresswoman Clare Boothe Luce, trod the boards in her first stellar role last night as the heroine of George Bernard Shaw's "Candida".

In addition to the Mmes. Bernhardt, Duse and Fiske, the Mmes. Helen Hayes, Laurette Taylor and Kit Cornell can also rest easy. Miss Boothe gave a nice, clear, lady-like performance. But she ain't fencin' nobody in.

But, to borrow a phrase from the professional critics, the beautiful blonde congresswoman's performance was adequate. And in a fast company of professionals, too.

The return of Miss Boothe to the theatre—she once understudied Mary Pickford in "The Good Little Devil" in 1914—proved a platinum-plated event in the barn yard circuit. Social, theatrical and political big wigs crowded the Strand theatre here for the premiere.

Social Pow-Wow

Rep. Joe Martin of Massachusetts, Republican leader of the House of Representatives, was among those present. So were Gov. Raymond Baldwin of Connecticut, and Sam Pryor, who gets out the Republican vote in Mrs. Luce's district.

Such effulgent Broadway producers as Lee Shubert, Gilbert Miller, Brock Pemberton and Jack Wilson were in the audience. At the end of the first act, Shubert declared that Miss Boothe had both talent and it.

"I'd offer her a job in a minute," Shubert said.

Miller, more cautious, contented himself with gallantly saying "my favorite person in my favorite play".

Autograph Field Day

It is doubtful if any Hollywood or Broadway premiere was ever mobbed by more autograph hunters and hangers-on. The lobby of the Strand theatre was so jammed with both that legitimate customers had difficulty in pushing through to reach their seats.

Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt and his bride, Actress Faye Emerson, were favorites of the autograph hunters. Bernard M. Baruch slipped in and out of the theatre virtually unnoticed.

Ilka Chase, the actress-playwright who starred in Miss Boothe's first Broadway hit, "The Women," went backstage after the show to congratulate the radiant star of "Candida".

"Darling, you were wonderful!" cooed Miss Chase.

"Darling, it's such fun," Miss Boothe cooed right back.

Scientists Work Long In Secret On Atomic Bomb

ALAMOGORDO, N. M., Aug. 7.—(INS)—Persons living in New Mexico had atomic bombs virtually in their own back yards and learned of them only today—along with the rest of the world.

Atomic bomb scientists worked secretly for two years in an isolated ranch school for boys near Los Alamos, N. M., about 200 miles north of Alamogordo.

Terrific blasts and explosions that rocked southern New Mexico on July 16 were revealed yesterday to have been the atomic bomb's first firing. At the time army secrecy explained it merely as an "ammunition magazine explosion".

Many Wild Reports

Persons living 100 miles from Alamogordo army air field heard the blast—and the flash was reported seen as far as 235 miles from Alamogordo.

Reports from widely-scattered areas came in saying there had been an "earthquake", a "meteor had landed" and that there had been a "bomber crash".

A blind student at the University of New Mexico, Miss Georgia Green of Socorro, "saw" it although she was about 150 miles from the scene.

She was driving to Albuquerque with her brother-in-law, Joe Wils, and asked "what's that?" even before the roar of the blast could be heard.

Windows rattled in Silver City, 135 miles west of Alamogordo.

In announcing the "blast of a considerable amount of high explosives and pyrotechnics", Col. William O. Eareckson, base commander, listed property damage as "negligible" and declared that there had been no loss of life or injuries.

Jersey Workers Protest Paying Philadelphia Tax

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Nearly 2500 Navy Yard employes from south Jersey began their second "work holiday" today in protest against the Philadelphia wage tax.

Francis I. Orle of Riverside, N. J., and Leroy A. Owen, of Camden, N. J., spokesmen for the workers, said objections were mostly directed to the Philadelphia police practice of going into the yard and arresting workers at their jobs.

It was reported that the workers would be back at their jobs tomorrow because no absences have been authorized in connection with the wage-tax protest. Unless the employes are back tomorrow they would be dealt with in accordance with Navy department rules.

The spokesmen asserted, however, that if there is a recurrance of police arrests at the yard, the workers will "go out and stay out."

In 1923 W. F. Gerhardt built and succeeded in flying a 98-pound airplane with foot-pedal operated propeller.

Reveal Start Of Development Of New Atomic Bomb

Discoveries At Columbus University Paved Way For Development Of New War Weapon

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The sensational new atomic bomb was revealed today to have been born nearly six years ago in vaults hewn out of rock under the campus of Columbia university.

It was there, in January of 1939, that Dr. John R. Dunning and Dr. Enrico Fermi finally succeeded in unlocking the basic energy of the universe by splitting the uranium atom, paving the way for development of the atomic bomb.

That is why the subsequent Army research, engaging the best scientific minds of the United Nations, became identified in secret files as the "Manhattan project", one of the world's top war secrets.

Opening of Battle

The successful Dunning-Fermi experiment marked the opening of a great scientific battle, perhaps more significant than any fought on the field. For only two weeks before, it is now revealed, a similar discovery had been made in Nazi Germany.

Ten years earlier Dr. Fermi, then in Italy where he was a Nobel Prize winner, discovered a new element which he called uranium 93—a discovery which set scientists all over the world working feverishly to solve the problem of how to release atomic energy.

But it was uranium 235, developed at Columbia by Prof. A. O. Nier, a University of Minnesota physicist, in collaboration with Dr. Dunning and others, that provided the perfect atom for the successful splitting experiment.

The Army immediately took over the research, setting up laboratories in various parts of the country which eventually produced the atomic bomb.

In one year, 1852, nearly 1,500 miles were driven from Santa Fe to Missouri.

Detroit Splits With White Sox

Tigers Retain Half-Game Lead As Washington Is Idle, Indians Win Pair

MARK CHRISTIAN STRUCK OVER EYE

By LES CONKLIN
(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—That tantalizing half-a-game lead is still there in the American League standings.

With the league-leading Detroit Tigers booked for a double-header against the Chicago White Sox yesterday and the second-place Washington Senators held idle, there would have been an excellent chance for the Senators to back right into first place without raising a bat in their own cause.

That is—if Detroit had lost its two games to the White Sox.

Tiges-Sox Split

This, fortunately or unfortunately, did not happen. The Tigers and the Sox split, Detroit taking the opener 6 to 2 as Al Benton posted his 11th victory of the year and Chicago winning the nightcap, 7 to 0 on Johnny Humphries' four-hit twirling.

Rain took care of two National League encounters, one of which pitted the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Boston Braves and the other the St. Louis Cardinals and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The other Monday contest was a twi-night doubleheader between the St. Louis Browns and the Cleveland Indians.

Indians Win Two

Disaster rode the first game in the person of a ball pitched by Cleveland Hurler Allie Reynolds. The ball struck St. Louis Batter Mark Christman over the left eye. His condition was pronounced serious but not critical.

Cleveland finally won the opener, 9 to 7. With their ace, Steve Gromek, on the hill the Indians went on to take the nightcap, 8 to 4.

Kids Now Asking For Busted Bats

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The day when youngsters were content to collect major league players autographs has ended.

Two enterprising youngsters at Saturday's twin bill startled Pirate players with requests, not for autographs, but for any broken bats that might be in front of the dugout.

Players questioned are wondering what comes next!

Committee Will Complete Plans For Golf Tourney

Meeting Is Called By Acting Chairman W. T. Saul For Wednesday Eve At Sylvan Heights

Acting Chairman W. T. Saul, of the committee in charge of arrangements for the Open Invitational Golf tournament for golfers of Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio, has called a meeting of the committee for Wednesday evening, following the league matches, when final plans for the tourney, which takes place next Sunday, August 12, will be made.

All team captains, league officials, and members of the Sylvan Heights Advisory board have been asked to attend this meeting.

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

PARIS, Aug. 7.—The fame of Texas for producing championship golfers such as Byron Nelson, Ben Hogan, Ralph Guldahl and others, today was transplanted clear across the Atlantic.

Latest linksman to add to the glory of the Lone Star state is Cpl. Lloyd Mangrum of Dallas, who won the E. T. O. tournament at the St. Cloud club from a field of 90 American army golfers.

Mangrum, now a resident of Los Angeles, carded a final round of 75 for a 72-hole total of 291. This placed him five strokes ahead of the runnerup, Lieut. Mat Kowal of Philadelphia. Sgt. Rod Munday, former Toledo, O., pro., was third with 299.

Lack of Practice

Mangrum won despite the handicaps of lack of practice, and the makeshift equipment he was forced to use. Although aided by a French interpreter, Lloyd found many shots difficult due to the seven-club restrictions imposed by the limited issue of sports equipment. In the United States amateurs are allowed to carry 14 clubs in their bag, and professionals 15.

In 1941 Mangrum shot a 64 in the Masters' Open, tying the world record for pro competition, and won many tournaments before entering the Army. But he never did anything so impressive as this feat of clipping nine strokes off par figures with little preparation.

Representing the Third Army with which he served in infantry reconaissance and in the lines two days after arriving in France, Mangrum found his swings hampered by the grinding of his shoulder bones as the result of a jeep accident.

Under Difficulties

Many of the other contestants under fire recently and wearing Purple Hearts and other decorations, took delight in relaxing on the plateau overlooking the Seine valley. Many played in combat boots.

Mangrum was dressed like the rest except that he found spikes to fasten on his shoes. He simply rolled up his sleeves, took a hitch in his pants and with little practice, started shooting.

"I found it hard to concentrate and couldn't think at times," he said. "I had little practice except with a driver I recently bought in Germany for $19, a woodshafter iron costing nine dollars and two balls which cost five dollars each—all worth about a buck."

Three Games In County League

Wampum At Legion Tonight; Moose At Ellwood City; Hillsville At Edenburg

LEAGUE MANAGERS MEET WEDNESDAY

Three more games are carded for tonight in the Lawrence county baseball league, all games starting at 6 o'clock. A meeting of the managers and officials of the league will take place Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Sporting Goods store, with Alec Samuels, president presiding.

The Edenburg at Ellwood postponed game scheduled for Wednesday at Ellwood City, has been called off, due to the meeting. It will be played at a later date.

Moose At Ellwood City

The feature game on the card tonight will take the league leading Moose team to Ellwood City, where the Moose successful in their last meeting with the first-half champs hope to make it two in a row and thereby take a step nearer the second-half championship. Manager Rodenbaugh will probably use Bill Barbato on the hill against "Specs" Ferrante, or Jim McCready. If Barbato and McCready tangle it will be soldier against soldier, both pitching aces being home on furlough.

Hillsville at Edenburg

The Hillsville team with its recent win over Wampum will try hard tonight to make it two in a row by downing the Edenburg Tigers. Edenburg today announced the signing of Jack McCullough and Ron Nelson and the release of Glenn Hoover.

Hillsville will use Dolly Hartman on the hill tonight in an effort to win, and Edenburg will counter with Leeper or J. Exposito.

Wampum at Legion

HAMBLETONIAN CHOICE - By Jack Sords

JOHN McKIBBEN, World War I veteran and a former masseur of athletes is in the Jameson Memorial hospital recently having undergone an operation for the removal of a cataract. . . . Travel trouble is serious in the Pacific league. The loop has the longest jump in baseball—San Diego to Seattle. . . . Kenneth Barr, a 16-year-old high school student, trains Adorable Ann at Longacres, a track in Washington State. . . . Arthur Donovan, referee, who has refereed several of Billy Conn's fights, opines the Pittsburgher will be a better fighter after he returns from service than ever before.

Lt. Nick Conteas, quarterback, Northwestern, in 1939, commanded a PT boat in the Borneo landings. . . . Wayne Harper, pfc. with the Marines, writes that recently he met Sheriff Clyde Badger, now on leave, and in service. "He looks swell and treated me to a nice day," Wayne wrote. "While together we ran into Carl Seungio, Lofton street," the letter added. He forwarded some boxing news. They have overseas addresses via San Francisco. . . . Skating rink will be ready for skating when the ice freezes according to the mayor's recreation project committee chairman, C. F. Suber. . . . The Hambletonian will be trotted tomorrow at Goshen, N. Y.

National tennis championships are scheduled for Forest Hills, L. I., August 29, but already the word is out that Billy Talbert of Delaware is the guy to beat. . . . Talbert, who has been playing tennis since he was 15—he's 26 now—recently won the Seabright lawn tennis invitational, beating Lt. Gardner Mulloy. . . . Earl Grace, now a captain in the army, is at Daytona Beach, Fla., and coaches the camp's baseball team. . . . He formerly played with the Cubs, Pirates and Phils. . . . Vic Bradford, former Alabama athlete who was with the Giants, is one of the leading hitters of the ball team at the navy pre-flight school at St. Mary's, Calif.

Stan Hack of the Cubs once turned down baseball to work in a bank. . . . He gave it up to join Sacramento in 1931. . . . Johnny Beazley, ex-Card pitching ace, has been transferred from Hickman Field, in Hawaii. . . . Bob Harris, ex-pitcher for A's, is hurling in an Hawaiian League. . . . Dick Wakefield, former Tiger outfielder, is another major leaguer now in Hawaii. . . . Tommy Holmes' younger brother, Joe, 17, is being eyed by big league scouts. . . . Villanova College gridders, nicknamed the Wildcats, have a real live wildcat as their mascot this season.

Borowy Retains Draft Status

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., Aug. 7—(INS)—Hank Borowy, Cub pitcher, today retained his draft deferment after a review by his Bloomfield selective service board.

Borowy, recently sold to the Cubs by the Yankees for $100,000, was reclassified from 2B to 2A on the grounds that he was "contributing to the war effort but not actually on the assembly line." The change will not affect his service with the Cubs.

Joe McCarthy Is Still Sick Man

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 7—(INS)—Joe McCarthy's condition was improved, but he has not recovered enough to warrant his immediate return to his job as manager of the New York Yankees, his physician said.

The physician, Dr. Arthur J. Burkel, declared McCarthy has said "nothing that would indicate he does not plan on returning to New York."

STOCK MARKET IS WEAK TODAY

Prospect That Atomic Bomb May Shorten War Is Pretext For Selling Market

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The stock market turned weak this morning when accelerated selling depressed leaders as much as two points.

Prospect that the new atomic bomb might shorten the war, bringing U. S. industry face to face with sudden reconversion to peace time output was a major pretext for the new selling.

Volume was running at nearly 1,000,000 shares for the full session compared with 490,000 yesterday.

Santa Fe slumped two points. Many other leaders were depressed a point including U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Electric, American Smelting, Woolworth and Western Union.

Speculators began a search for mining stocks associated with uranium, the raw materials used in the atomic bomb. Vanadian Corp. jumped three points to 27. Union Carbide gained nearly a point.

Gains were fractionally lower. Cotton declined 50c a bale. Bonds were easier.

Five Keystone State Marines Are Decorated

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Five Marines from Pennsylvania were among the 14 Leathernecks who were decorated today with bronze stars at Philadelphia's city hall.

The ceremony was part of a city-wide observance of the historic significance of Guadalcanal. It was there on August 7, 1942, the Marines launched their first offensive against the enemy.

Col. G. L. Gloeckner of the Marine corps depot of supplies read the individual citations and decorated the Marines.

Gunnery Sgt. Anthony A. Pavlock of Frackville was cited for demonstrating outstanding qualities of initiative and courageous leadership while landing with a company of tractors under terrific enemy mortar and artillery fire.

Corp. Joe Gornick, of Butler, received the bronze star for outstanding courage and thorough knowledge of his work while carrying assault troops to the beach under fire.

The ability and courage of Staff Sgt. Nicholas L. Trotta, of Farrell, was commended as supervisor of communications during assaults.

Sgt. Wilson C. Wirth of Allentown was cited for repairs he made on tractors which were rendered inserviceable during assault.

Cpl. Lester D. Thomas of Bloomsburg, received the bronze star for repairs to tractors needed to carry ammunition and rations to the front lines.

Spain Defiant Over Exclusion Of Gen. Franco

MADRID, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Official Spain is defiant over the decision of the Big Three to exclude Generalissimo Francisco Franco's government from the United Nations but the average Spaniard is frankly worried.

The "quarantine" of Spain which was revealed in the Potsdam communique is the chief topic of cafe conversation in Madrid today.

Spaniards from all walks of life seem to feel that the government is foolhardy if it believes it can continue its precarious policies and defy the rest of the world.

This correspondent talked with scores of business and professional men, all of whom believe that a radical change is necessary. Without exception they feel that the recent minor concessions of the government toward a democratic way of life are too ineffectual to serve any real purpose.

Chairman McCracken Receives Report On Disposition Of Clothing In United Campaign

Clothing given by Lawrence county citizens will reach millions of war victims overseas before winter sets in, Henry J. Kaiser, national chairman of the United National Clothing Sollection, has informed S. Glenn McCracken, local chairman.

Their contribution has been a big one for world peace, President Truman has stated, of the national clothing collection, in which Lawrence county citizens gave 99,800 pounds of help the nation exceed the goal of 150,000,000 pounds.

Mr. Kaiser's report reveals that almost 30,000,000 pounds of clothing had been baled on July 23, of which 15,564,266 pounds had been shipped. It was sent to nine countries. Belgium gets 1,816,284 pounds, Czechoslovakia 2,022,276 pounds, France 3,535,815 pounds, Greece 1,334,472 pounds, Italy 340,045 pounds, the Philippines 1,041,725 pounds, Yugoslavia 4,423,647 pounds, China 50,000 pounds and Russia 1,000,000 pounds.

First shipments have arrived at their destination and are now distributed. It is hoped to have it all shipped by winter, where it will lessen the hardships of the coming winter for many people in war-torn lands.

Nurse Recruitment Week Is Under Way

Elks Nurse Recruitment Week, August 6, got off to a good start, when members of the War Commission of B. P. O. Elks No. 69, made appointments to interview nurses in this vicinity tonight at 8 o'clock in the Elks Home, North Mill street.

Harry Carlson, chairman, is asking that all nurses who responded to Brigadier-General Frank T. Hines' letter of appeal, who were not reached by telephone to be present at this meeting. Also any other registered nurse interested in Veterans Administration Nursing.

Changes in the Veterans Administration Nursing Service were made on July 1, 1945, to provide professional status, salary increases, and educational and career opportunities for nurses.

Elks all over the country are assisting the Veterans Administration, so that the news of these advantages may be known to nurses as quickly as possible.

Mrs. Margaret Dagnon, registered nurse, and Maj. Guy J. Wadlinger, a veteran of the last war, will be on hand to explain the advantages of the Veterans Nursing Service.

Two thousand nurses are required to care adequately for the tremendous influx of World War II patients in the 93 Veterans Administration Hospitals through the country.
